As soon as a deliberative document leaves the federal government and goes outside (including states or corporations) it would not be able to fall under the deliberative exemption.

Hi Nicole,

Attached are our notes from the [REDACTED] facility. Like with other notes from tire processing facilities, we would only share these with Jackie. Should anything be of interest for the study, we would check it with the facility. (Chris, correct me if I am wrong, but internal documents that stay between federal agencies are not subject to FOIA requests?)
